EXOCAD ANNOUNCES PARTICIPATION IN 2021 DENTAL SOUTH CHINA TRADE SHOW

DARMSTADT, Germany – April 26, 2021-- exocad GmbH (exocad), an Align Technology, Inc. company, today announced its planned participation in the 2021 Dental South China (DSC) trade show in Guangzhou, China, taking place May 10-13, 2021. At DSC, exocad will showcase its newest software release DentalCAD 3.0 Galway and its other open software solutions, at booth C20 in hall 15.1. Additionally, exocad is launching its 2021 anti-software-piracy program at the event. With this global educational campaign, exocad demonstrates its support for its resellers, educates on patient data safety, and gives recognition to its customers.

"We very much look forward to participating in the Dental South China show in May 2021. It will be the first trade show this year where our team will participate on site again," explains Novica Savic, exocad CCO. "Our team will present our latest software release DentalCAD Galway with the new Instant Anatomic Morphing, offering automatic adaptation of teeth in real time, with improved speed and precision for the anatomic tooth placement."

The Dental South China international trade show, aimed at dental technicians and dentists, offers international companies numerous opportunities for establishing new business contacts and discovering new trends in the growing Chinese dental market. Visitors to exocad's booth will experience live demonstrations by exocad experts, get exclusive insight into the latest features and learn how the software can help to reduce design time and increase productivity in their lab or practice.

Additional information about 2021 DSC show is available at dentalsouthchina.com.
